

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An embodiment of the invention is a method of manufacturing copper interconnects 30 on a semiconductor wafer 10 where an electroplating process is used to deposit a first layer of copper grains 30d having an initial grain size and a second layer of copper grains 30e having a different initial grain size.